Susie Burrell

Susie Burrell is a sports and paediatric dietician who completed both of her nutrition and psychology Honours degrees at Wollongong University. Since graduating, Susie has specialised in fat loss, childhood obesity and sports nutrition. Susie has a particular interest in writing for both print and electronic media and currently has a weekly nutrition column in The Daily Telegraph, as well as columns in “Dolly”, “Good Health and Medicine” and “ALPHA” magazines. In her spare time, Susie loves to escape the rush of Sydney to run around Wollongong’s beautiful beaches and spend time with her Burmese cat Charlie.
